Mission Atlanta Union Mission is a Christian ministry that brings Christ’s healing Power to any person in crisis through programs of rescue and recovery.

History Atlanta Union Mission was established in 1938 as a refuge for hungry individuals displaced by the Great Depression. Over the years, the Mission has grown from a single shelter in downtown Atlanta to six facilities, which provide emergency food and shelter, residential recovery programs and transitional housing to as many as 1,144 homeless and addicted men and women, and their children.

Emergency Services Atlanta Union Mission provides emergency shelter to as many as 426 men, women and children at two separate campuses. Guests of the shelters are provided hot showers, clean clothes, nutritious food and a safe place to sleep.

Recovery & Transitional Programs Atlanta Union Mission provides residential recovery and transitional housing programs to as many as 718 men, women and women with children. The residential recovery program offers a six to 12-month Christian curriculum with individual and group counseling, life skills training, work therapy and spiritual guidance. The 18-month transitional housing program continues the healing process. Clients live in a supportive, drug-free environment while working or pursuing further education as they transition to independent living.
